

Teaching for Motivation (The Invisible Curriculum)

Self-motivation lies at the heart of good teaching and learning. Its not our skills and talents or even our personality that get us out of bed in the morning, its our motivation - whether were an adult or a child. This book considers how we can identify, nurture and report on the intrinsic motivations of staff and pupils, thus raising engagement, reducing absenteeism and improving the efficacy of teams and learning groups. Practical ideas and solutions are suggested throughout. Teaching for Motivation is the third book in the Invisible Ink series, in partnership with INK Education, that aims to shed light on the Invisible Curriculum and the secret ingredients that really unlock a childs learning potential. Andrew Hammond is a headteacher, educational consultant, trainer, conference speaker and author of more than 30 educational titles for major publishers. Great teachers nurture the heart, instil self-confidence and change the course of a childs life. This book identifies that process and it is as profound and revealing as it is straightforward.
